

Los Angeles Success
Four Great Japanese
Girls Almost Dead Heat
What a Polite Waitress

By Arthur Brisbane

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—You are sitting, high in the air, looking through another's eyes at the Olympic swimming races.

A pool of clear, blue water, 20 meters long, lies below you, a brilliant sun shining on it. The bigger stadium is visible through the trees, a 100,000 numbered and reserved seats, biggest structure in the world, and built of steel and concrete to last "forever." It did not have room for the crowd that came to see the games start.

Los Angeles has done this thing "right" to use the prevailing expression. This swimming stadium seats 10,000, every seat filled.

The pool is divided into lanes, and lined along the water log separating the swimmers of seven nations. Great Britain, U. S. A., Italy, France, Hungary, Canada, Argentina, in the order named.

In one corner, smiling pleasantly at their pictures are taken, you see four young dark-skinned Japanese.

Watch them swim and you see perfect physical mechanism, used with perfect knowledge of what heart and muscles can do.

The pistol sends the seven into the water at the same second. It is a relay race of 800 meters, four swimmers of each nation, each swimming 200 meters.

The Japanese are smaller than the white races, smaller than our United States swimmers from Hawaii. Their arms and legs are slender, chests deep and wide.

The first Japanese in the relay leaps far out into the water, swims below the surface, until he loses impetus, comes to the surface ahead of his competitors. He and the three that relay him stay ahead until the race is won in 8 minutes, 58.4 seconds. The Olympic record established by the United States in 1928, of 9 minutes, 26.10 seconds, is shattered by about 27 seconds.

Myazaki, Yusa, Toyoda and Yokohama are the four Japanese high school boys that beat the world. They could make Leander look like a sea cow tied to a wharf.

They all use the same swimming stroke, arms flung far, legs held straight out, scarcely moving, tapping the water with their feet. The first nine-tenths of the race, turning for a fraction of a second, is in the air through the water, smooth, perfect, while the last showing just at the water's surface.

No wonder Japan can swim. The Japanese practice in a big way. From a Japanese man-of-war an officer will dive after him, and in formation, like a miniature battle fleet, the officer keeping the lead, they will swim in lines, rigidly maintained, for 25 miles, through rough water. How can you expect to beat them?

Their victory is applauded with cheers that delight them. Japan's athletes can testify that no American or other winner is applauded here more warmly than the winning Japanese.

Then the young ladies swim. A breast stroke race of 200 meters. The breast stroke is slow, for at every stroke momentum must be restored to motion by a vigorous kick. With the breast stroke motion is uninterrupted.

There is the same difference between the piano and the violin. Music flows continuously from the violin, as from the words. That puts the violin ahead of all other instruments.

Very nice girls are in that race, those of European race, tall, long legged. Japan's young lady, Miss H. Maehata, not so tall, smiles like one of the Japanese dolls that you see, with bobbed hair for their foreheads. Her arms and legs are not so long as those of her whiter sisters, but she can swim.

She comes in number two, beaten by Miss Deane of Australia. Great excitement when Miss Maehata, who led at first, was swimming, seemed to take a dead heat with Miss Jacobson of Denmark and Miss Deane of Australia.

Australia won, with a new Olympic record for 200 meters breast stroke of three minutes, 42.4 seconds. The first three finished the race almost in the same second, Miss Maehata and Miss Jacobson, both beating the Olympic record.

This is the place to reproduce a statement by George Young, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner:

"There is nothing remarkable about the fact that the Japanese Olympic and world records have been broken in the swimming. It is all due to THE STIMULATING EFFECTS OF THE WONDERFUL SUMMER CLIMATE. It is time the world that California is the world's most marvelous summer climate."

Monarchists Attempt Coup to Enthron Third Son of Ex-King Alfonso

Madrid, Aug. 10.—Spain this afternoon was under martial law as the Republican government mobilized to check a rebellion which was declared an attempt at a monarchist coup for Prince Juan Carlos, 13, third son of Alfonso XIII.

Under the leadership of Gen. Primo de Rivera, the chief of the rebellion, the monarchist army of the north, Gen. Maria Christina, monarchist and conservative Papabene, staged a revolt against the government of Premier Manuel Azaña, and it spread rapidly throughout the country.

Seven men were killed and five wounded in battle in front of the War Ministry building between police and army troops and some civilians whose aim was to capture the principal government buildings.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, commander of the presidential body guards, announced that Sanjurjo had established headquarters at Jerez de la Frontera.

SEVILLE TO BE ATTACKED

The Sixth Regiment, stationed at Madrid, was ordered to attack Seville from the north. Meanwhile all loyal troops were being assembled from the southern provinces and reinforcements were hurried from Catalonia.

Reports from the army were involved in a mutiny there as the 15th Regiment of the army was involved in a mutiny there as the 15th Regiment of the army was involved in a mutiny there.

Nurses Fail to Identify Youth as Prowler

A youth was arrested on the City Hospital grounds today, on suspicion of being the prowler who terrorized nurses and patients two weeks ago, but was cleared when a matron and nurse who viewed him at East Dedham at station failed to identify him.

He was held, however, for transport. He gave his name as John Kelly, 25, of Springfield, Chicago, Ill.

Those who tried and failed to identify him were Miss Mary Josephine, a matron, and Miss Josephine Shea, a nurse, both of whom had an encounter with the prowler who invaded the hospital.

Kelly denied being the prowler and first said he was waiting for William McCarthy, a hospital employee. When confronted with the fact that no one by that name was employed at the hospital he said he was waiting for a friend, whose name he did not know.

He admitted he was a former employee. Hospital authorities declared at the time of the prowler's visits, that the mystery man was apparently familiar with the layout of the hospital.

When Connelly questioned Kelly he could not tell what work "McCarthy" did at the hospital. Kelly changed his story when grilled and declared a friend had driven him to the hospital last night and left him there.

Checkup revealed that the car was the property of a doctor at the hospital.

DEPRESSION IN NATION-WIDE SWING OF BETTER PEOPLE

LEADERS BANK ON MARKET TO END SLUMP

Poll of Executives Reveals Employment Gains and Rosy Prospects

(Copyright, 1932, by Chicago Herald and Examiner and Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, Aug. 10.—Some of America's business leaders who have been trying to pilot our economic ship through the hurricane of depression are convinced that they have won the first skirmish. They are, however, still very cautious in their utterances.

Since the recent remarkable upturn in security and commodity markets, opinion as to whether the depression has actually been broken has varied widely. To get the facts on a nationwide basis, the Chicago Herald and Examiner submitted three questions to the heads of Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations in the nation's largest cities. The questions were:

Do you notice an upturn in business?

Do you think the present bull market will break the depression?

Has employment increased in your city?

IMPROVEMENT NOTED
Some of the men in closest touch with the nation's business life telegraphed that there was an improvement and that the bull market was highly significant and not just a professional manipulation. Some were not quite so enthusiastic.

Most optimistic were the replies from agricultural communities. Ben Criss, vice-president and general manager of the Dallas, Tex., Chamber of Commerce, wired:

"Business has taken a noticeable upturn in this country. We consider the depression already broken. This is the reason for the bull market."

OUTLOOK BETTER
W. L. Pierpont, president of the Omaha, Neb., Chamber of Commerce, sent this message:

"Ble in live stock prices has materially affected business and the future outlook is bright. In the opinion of agricultural producers has created a hopeful feeling, but the advance is not yet sufficient to cause a visible upturn in Chicago."

Optimism is at its peak in Chicago as well as in the country. The what Samuel M. Hastings, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, had to say:

"The upturn in business is quite pronounced in many states from production to consumption. I think the bull market is doing more than anything else to establish confidence."

NEW ENGLAND HOOM
Things are most decidedly improved, perhaps, in New England, where longshore business is beginning to turn again. Fredrick S. Snyder, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, telegraphed:

"Employment is on the increase. One small town in New Hampshire has had its payroll to mill operatives grow from $1000 per week to $1500 per week, and $2000, this change taking place in the last two days."

SUBSTANTIAL UPTURN
Lincoln, Conn., acting president of the Merchants' Association of New York, expressed the optimism of business men there in the following telegram:

"A substantial upturn in business has occurred in New England. Textile manufacturers are unable to supply the demand for popular fabrics."

"Some increase in employment is taking place."
George J. Pringle, executive vice president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, "noted a decidedly better feeling during the last ten days."

C. E. Collison, manager of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, wired:

"Price advance on cattle and hogs has put that industry on a profitable basis. Sugar advance, if it is maintained, will have a pronounced effect. The bull market will break the depression if it is sustained."

Kansas City's Chamber of Commerce, represented by Conrad H. Mann, president, replied:

SLIGHT UPTURN
"Directors representing 1500 merchants in the Southwest declare that excellent crop prospects, mounting prices of hogs and cattle and small advances on wheat, corn, eggs and other farm products have increased the weight of the best fall business in the country."

"During the last 30 days," telegraphed L. W. Greve, president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, "there has been a slight upturn in business. Exporters hold steady with an inclination toward a slight increase."

E. Laidlaw, president of the Milwaukee Grain and Stock Exchange, wired:

"There is some increase in business, the present bull market is breaking the depression because it is changing the minds of the people. It is the first step toward recovery."

Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, said:

"This industrial center in the past week shows a better feeling. The stock market reaction is destroying the country of dread and fear, and we really look for a steady movement for the better."

MARTIAL LAW IN SPAIN

By about 60 cavalrymen, led by Capt. Manuel Silvestre.

The cavalrymen, after a two-hour retreat, returned to a Spanish barracks.

36 ARRESTS IN MADRID
Ninety arrests were made, but only 36 of the prisoners are civilians.

The others include Duke del Infantado, Gen. Jose Cavallero, Gen. Emilio Fernandez Perez and Gen. Francisco Geronzo.

The general was detained because it was charged that he had some of the rebel troops that tried on the police.

The government asked all newspapers to publish a request that owners of automobiles register their cars with the ministry of war in case they should be needed for mobilization of troops and transportation of men to the centers of trouble.

The newspapers were forbidden to print news with details of the situation, and the cabinet was called together to talk things over.

The General Workers' Union warned all Socialist members to be ready to fight in defense of the Republic.

SANJERO POPULAR
Gen. Sanjeron is the man who escorted Queen Victoria to the French border at the beginning of the Spanish civil war.

He was commander of the civil guard when the monarchy was overthrown, and said then the guard would not interfere with the proclamation of the republic.

He was extremely popular with the guard when he commanded it, but that force was reorganized after the establishment of the republic and Sanjeron was made high commissioner for Morocco a post in which he served only two months when he was recalled to Spain.

Prince Juan Carlos, regarded as the most likely choice of the monarchists to succeed his father as King, is Alfonso's third son.

He is 18 and at present a cadet in the British navy. Alfonso's eldest son is in the naval college now after last month's marriage.

ZAMORA RETURNS
Today's session of Congress opened with great excitement as the radical Republicans adopted a similar resolution.

The Agrarians, long opponents of the government, announced in the present emergency they would favor the forces of law and order.

The radical Republicans adopted a similar resolution.

President Nicolo Alcala Zamora, who had been absent from Madrid, was welcomed by more than 2000 persons when he returned today.

His welcome was greeted with a general strike.

SEES NAME AS DEMOCRATIC

Both Massachusetts and Maine will be found in the Democratic column as a result of the election.

"Many Democrats were mapping plans for a routing reception for the Tannoyan mayor upon his arrival tonight."

When Walker awoke from his train he will be greeted by large bands and several thousand Americans—mostly Democrats—who will escort him through the city's downtown business streets to the hotel.

The demonstration has been arranged by the Albany group, but also by the Democratic organization of which Edward J. O'Connor is chairman.

O'Connor is Tammany leader John F. Curry's chief upstate lieutenant.

Target of Rum Syndicate's Vengeance
Into the consecrated confines of this historic Congregationalist church in Little Compton, R. I., a symbol of the serene tranquility of Cape Cod life for generations, modern gangdom has thrust its irreverent tentacles.

OVER 12 BILLION IN U. S. GREIT FOR BUSINESS

Greatest Stimulating Campaign in World's History Is Now Functioning

Washington, Aug. 10 (INS)—In the most gigantic business stimulating campaign ever known in the world, the U. S. Government has set up a potential credit of more than $12,000,000,000 through direct and indirect means.

With the Reconstruction Finance Corporation already having advanced about a billion dollars in loans, other financial institutions and railroads, the Federal Home Loan Board, potentially capable of extending $1,000,000,000 in credit, is perfecting its organization today in the effort to stimulate home building and to save thousands of homes threatened by foreclosure.

Under the present setup, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been authorized to pay out $5,000,000,000. Repayments of loans which have already been in substantial volume, would make it possible for the corporation to extend its credit to $12,000,000,000.

SURVEY SHOWS DEMOCRATIC SWEEP SURE

Farley Gets Inside Information From Every State; Middle West Bolting G. O. P.

By LOUIS SEIBOLD (Copyright, 1932, International News Photos.)

New York, Aug. 10.—A two-day survey of Democratic prospects by National Chairman Farley today disclosed a greater degree of enthusiasm among party leaders than the most hopeful of Governor Roosevelt's supporters expected.

Discouraging the extravagance of the rainbow chasers, reports made by national committees and state chairs seemed almost too good to be true.

The survey, made at the request of Governor Roosevelt, was the first comprehensive effort in that direction. There is little question that it was the result of a thorough and earnest effort.

FINANCE ON DRIVES
The reports made by national committees and state chairs during the two-day conference, which covered a wide range of subjects, showed the order of the relative importance were as follows:

1 The work of harmonizing various factions and sections of the party.

2 State organizations (with few exceptions) in the South have displayed an unusual willingness to accept the party line.

3 The efforts of Republicans to pin the label of extreme radicalism upon Gov. Roosevelt have been reported as having been completely, but it is made the subject of ridicule by prominent Democratic hitherto regarded as conservatives.

LIBERAL VIEWS WIN
4 Gov. Roosevelt's "liberal" program is finding favor in the middle and northwestern states with all elements of the party except those which usually respond to financial influences identified with the power and utility interests.

5 For the first time the agricultural interests of the trans-Mississippi and Northwestern states have come to view the Democratic program as far less relief with greater favor than they ever displayed for Republican policies, which have generally proved unsatisfactory.

6 Popular reactions against the failures of the Hoover administration to improve economic conditions and accelerate rearmament have according to the Democratic leaders in the Middle West turned hundreds of thousands of voters normally Republican toward the Democratic party.

7 Pronounced opposition among agricultural, industrial and business enterprises, both manufacturing and merchandising, to the Republican tariff policy is one of the outstanding features of the political situation.

8 Party leaders reacting to Farley's report of pessimism among Republican leaders of the states represented by them, the administration has been generally made by the fact that Hoover is no more popular today than he was six months ago.

Triangle Death Question to Be Put to Lancaster

Miami, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—"Capt. Lancaster, did you kill Haden Clarke?"
This was a question William N. Lancaster, former captain of the British Royal Flying Corps, defended here on the charge he murdered the fiancée of Lancaster's flying companion, Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, would be asked on his trial today.

In six hours and a half on the witness stand before the start of today's session the British war hero had outlined the beginning of his intimate association with Mrs. Keith-Miller, or "Chubbie," as he knew her, the start of their friendship with Haden Clarke, young pilot, and Lancaster's flight instructor, and the flight instructor's death in the crash of the plane in which he was killed.

His day and a half on the stand had been interrupted briefly to permit the appearance of three fliers from the Orient and a World War hero as character witnesses for Lancaster. They were Capt. Rex L. Gilman, former Royal Flying Corps pilot and now a rubber broker of Singapore. They spoke of Bill Lancaster as "one of the best" as a man whose reputation was "excellent" throughout the British flying corps, and as a man known for his "character, his calm and his peaceful, law-abiding ways."

When they had finished, Lancaster resumed his statement to bring the account of his association with "Chubbie" and Haden Clarke up to the evening before Clarke was killed in the Keith-Miller home where all three lived.

SOCIAL LEADER RECONCILED TO CHILDREN

All Hastening to the Bedside of Mother Who Rebelled at Their Marriages

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and successor to the late Mrs. Potter Palmer as arbiter of Chicago society, lies seriously ill in an exclusive Gold Coast mansion, whither she went a few weeks ago when financial adversities caused her to close her castle stone mansion.

America's richest woman, as she was sometimes called, was said to be in no immediate danger, but recovery was regarded as doubtful by friends and attendants.

Her illness, the serious nature of which has been revealed during the past few days, resulted in a general reconciliation with her estranged children. Her divorced husband, Harold Fowler McCormick, 54-year-old, was reported on his way to her bedside from the Pacific coast.

HEADED BY HIM
A lavish patron of the arts, Mrs. McCormick permitted neither her status as the leader of Gold Coast society, nor her indulgence in such hobbies as psychology, literature and the collection of rare manuscripts and oriental rugs, to interfere with the development of her business instinct and ability.

Before economic conditions made inroads on her fortune—and her illness was reported to have been caused by endeavor to meet the claims of real estate and stock market values—Mrs. McCormick was active in the management of one of Chicago's largest real estate firms. Under her direction, scores of subdivisions, many of them planned by her, were built.

ESTRANGED BY MARRIAGES
Material estrangements resulted from the marriages of all her children. Multiple married Max Oser, a Swiss riding master, in 1921. The resulting breach between mother and daughter was not healed until 1931. Mrs. Oser is reported coming from Chebourg, France, to see her mother.

Her Harold Fowler McCormick, Jr., failed to obtain immediate maternal sanction when he wed Pitt Stittman, mother of his college chum and divorced wife of the "New York" banker. Later, however, Mrs. McCormick has received the former Mrs. Stittman.

Mrs. McCormick incurred maternal disapproval when she married Maj. Wilbur Dyer Howard, Colonel of the 1st Cavalry, in 1924. This breach also was healed by Mrs. McCormick's illness, and the mother and her wife arrived in Chicago only a few days ago.

BREACHES ARE HEALED
After his divorce from Mrs. McCormick in 1921, Harold McCormick married Gladys Waite, opera singer, whom he sought to divorce. This union resulted in divorce.

Mrs. McCormick had planned to visit her father, John D. Sr., this fall. She had been estranged from him for many years. Her brother, John D., Jr., was a visitor at her home a few weeks ago.

BRIDE VISITS MINISTER IN JAIL CELL

Held for Killing His First Wife So as to Wed, He Pens Lyrics to Girl

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 10 (AP)—Facing arraignment on a charge of murdering his first wife by poisoning her, the Rev. S. A. Berrie, 52-year-old song writing pastor, turned his attention today from composition of a new hymn to raising money.

He said his Bethel tabernacle, in which he led a group of his followers after being ousted as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church several months ago, and began negotiations to borrow his life insurance. The Rev. Berrie brought only $75.

Harry O. Davis, an attorney, who conferred with Berrie in his cell shortly after the murder indictment was returned, said later Berrie wasn't sure he could get a lawyer and that he appeared not at all worried. Davis added that if retained he would seek Berrie's release on bail.

BRIDE STICKS TO HIM
Deserted by members of his flock, the handsome preacher was visited by his 18-year-old bride of two months as often as the authorities would permit. Love (Berrie) he allegedly penned to the attractive young Sunday school teacher.

Both Berrie and his bride, whom authorities exonerated as "an unfortunate victim of circumstances," were said by Paul K. Eldred, county attorney, to have admitted a clandestine love affair before the death of the first Mrs. Berrie but denied knowledge of the alleged romance.

SCRIBBLES VERSES
While a county grand jury was returning the indictment yesterday, the 52-year-old pastor sat untroubled in jail, humming the bars of new hymns and frequently scribbling off notes with a stubby pencil.

The hymnist, who wrote both words and music for such pieces as "In Branch Land," "Shall Wear a Crown Some Day" and "Over in the Glory Land," was said by prosecutors to have sent his future bride verses with such titles as "Hark, Hark, the Lark," "Joy and Sunshine Alone in the Dark" and "The Cross."

Berrie will be arraigned today and County Attorney Eldred said he would ask that trial be set for the term of court beginning September 19.

The first Mrs. Berrie collapsed at a church meeting and died last March 21. An autopsy officer said, declared presence of a deadly quantity of poison in her blood. "He killed himself," I read for two hours when I read of his death.

HELD AS POISONER
The preacher and the girl he married May 17 were arraigned today on charges of poisoning. The girl was held as a material witness.

In addition to composing hymns and the criminal justice investigation was in progress. Berrie shaved his head and was in the jail cell in and in turn received a shave at the hands of his fellow prisoner.

Nancy Hoyt Says She'll Love Slain Reynolds 'Always'

London, Aug. 10 (INS)—Smith Reynolds planned to marry her a few months before Libby Holman captured his love, Nancy Hoyt, American novelist, again declared here today.

The writer, seven years the slain Reynolds' senior, told of her love for the late in the tobacco mill, declaring she had come to England to recover from the shock of his death, which caused her to suffer a nervous breakdown.

"We seriously planned to marry, although we were both married to other people at the time," she said.

"It was really his idea. He treated me like a Victorian slave, and I was content merely to be with him, but he insisted we be married."

"After staying in America a while Smith got a divorce and started on a world tour. A few months later I got my divorce from Mr. Currie, the Boston banker, and began plans for my marriage."

SEES SALES TAX
AS WAY OUT

Washington, Aug. 10 (ING)—Shirley, of large fortunes will force Congress to adopt the general sales tax in order to provide the revenue necessary to run the government, in the opinion of Rep. Carl R. Chittenden, R., of Illinois, member of the House ways and means committee.

"The government cannot raise enough revenue from the so-called rich and from estates to meet expenses. The great fortune of a few men, no longer exist. Estates have shrunk proportionately," he said.

"I doubt whether the existing revenue act will provide enough revenue. As soon as this is proven by return, I believe consideration will be given to a new tax bill."

"I believe the country is satisfied that a manufacturers sales tax with the burden evenly spread over industries generally."

WANAMAKERS
ON SECRET TRIP

Reno, Nev., Aug. 10 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker, Jr., were on their wedding trip today, no one knew, or would say, exactly where.

John Wanamaker, Jr., of a wealthy Philadelphia family, married Mrs. Elizabeth Pels Warburton, divorced wife of his cousin, C. Edgerton Warburton of Philadelphia, a few hours after he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Pauline Danton Wanamaker here yesterday.

The divorce decree was granted in the afternoon by Superior Judge Thomas F. Moran on grounds of desertion. Last night Judge Moran officiated at the wedding at the home of Clyde D. Smith, Wanamaker's attorney.

Wanamaker testified Mrs. Wanamaker deserted him in August, 1929, when she refused to join him and other members of the family in Scotland. Mrs. Wanamaker persisted in her desertion for two years, he testified, and finally became insane in 1930.

Lloyd V. Smith, Reno attorney, appointed as Mrs. Wanamaker's guardian by the court, represented her, but no evidence was presented in her behalf. He said the family did not wish to submit Mrs. Wanamaker to the jurisdiction of the Nevada courts.

The court approved a property settlement, whereby Wanamaker will pay $27,500 annually for the support of Mrs. Wanamaker and an additional $10,000 a year for the maintenance of their two children, John Rodman Wanamaker and Fernanda Pauline Wanamaker. The Wanamakers were married in Newport, R. I., in 1917.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Boston Evening American)

Little Compton, R. I., Aug. 10.—Let us consider today the sorry plight of the people of this seashore town and neighboring Tiverton who banded together and organized a vigilante society after appealing to President Hoover to drive gun-fighting rum-runners off their front lawns and out of their back yards.

Though this society was organized many months ago and numbers several hundred secret members, this is the first public announcement of its existence.

Let us see what President Hoover did to aid the patriotic people of these communities after appeals to the local police, the Sheriff, the command of the State police and the National Guard.

Baltimore, Aug. 10.—Close on the heels of the revelation that Libby Holman Reynolds had visited and shopped in Baltimore while police were searching for her on the charge of slaying her husband, Mrs. Louise Jensen, her friends today reopened the Hartford County estate where Libby had been in retreat.

The estate, Oakington, owned by Leonard Richards, Jr., wealthy Washingtonian, was the scene of a party given by Mrs. Jensen.

When she arrived at the estate by automobile, Mrs. Jensen was accompanied by a blonde, whose identity she declined to reveal. The description fitted that of the blonde woman who was seen by Libby on her visits to Baltimore.

INTRUDERS BARRED
Mrs. Jensen reportedly opened the place with a brief statement: "I have rented this estate for an indefinite period. I do not expect any business to be done here, although she was here last week. Who my companion is, is none of your business. I have employed guards and no one will be allowed here whom I don't know. Now, get out."

Newspapers were ordered off the premises and the police were kept away. Mrs. Jensen was seen to enter the estate on Sunday and she is expected to return there.

'Ernie and 'Is Playmates

ZERO HOUR

Through the open door we see our old friend Bolivar trying to sweep back a large-sized ocean. The more he sweeps the more it rolls in. In the background is Sam, the eminent oculist, testing the vision of 'Ernie's playmate Ropy.

Poor Ropy's eyesight is getting worse and worse. He can't read the largest print. In the foreground is 'Ernie himself trying to compose his letter of acceptance. His little Dry playmate and his little Wet playmate are each telling him what to write.

It would be nice for 'Ernie if he could please them both, but the trouble is—

LEGION MOVES ON LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Aug. 10.—By automobile, train and even truck, the vanguard of the American Legionnaires and their friends arrived today for the annual state convention.

While business sessions do not open until tomorrow, enough activity was planned for today and tonight to furnish a varied program for pre-convention arrivals.

Commander Joe. Tweeney of Lawrence and his committee prepared to handle the throng they estimated will reach a peak of 200-300 persons.

Outside of the early registrations on today's schedule, the main event on the program is scheduled for tonight, a wrestling show in Lawrence Arena.

The first business session will take place tomorrow in the Varsity Theater. Department headquarters will be housed for the duration of the convention in the Franklin House.

CONTEXT FOR LEADER
The major problem of the delegates will be measures for immediate payment of the bonus, and on Saturday election of officers.

A spirited contest is in store in the contest for department commander between Frank H. Foy of Quincy and James P. Rose, present vice-commander of the state department.

The big task of the entertainment committee is the parade scheduled for Saturday. More than 20,000 members will be in line in procession to 150 bands and scores of floats.

Cuttyhunk's 2 Automobiles in Crash

If Boston and Somerville can boast of the lowest accident records in the country, the small island of Cuttyhunk, off the Cape, can boast of the highest.

Two cars—one collision, Cuttyhunk has a bad record for the year of exactly 1930.

Last Sunday, Cuttyhunk's accident record was spotted. Two cars, owned by Cornelius Wood of Boston, swung around a corner into a sedan, also owned by Cornelius Wood, of Boston.

Cuttyhunk police hurried to the scene and rushed back to cancel their request for a traffic light and a couple of dummy policemen. A glance at the accident showed that it would solve the traffic problem was cut in half.

SHARKEY READY TO GIVE GAS GALATHE GO

DEEMPSY SAYS JACK

Jack Sharkey, world's heavy-weight champion, stated today he would give Isidoro Castanaga, Spanish heavyweight who knocked out Charley Retzlaff in a round in New York, a crack at his title if he continues to bowl over the opposition.

"Castanaga looks like another Flipo," said Sharkey. "The fellow certainly can hit. Retzlaff is one of the best of the younger crop of heavyweights. I don't see how he can't match for the Spanish puncher."

"The public likes punches. If Castanaga can tip over a few more first class men, he will prove a tremendous drawing card. By next June he should have my money and I will draw $750,000. I can pick up a few more knockouts against first class opponents like Retzlaff."

CHAMPION LATCHES
Asked to comment on Jack Dempsey's statement that he could beat Sharkey, the champion laughed good naturedly.

"Dempsey is all through as a fighter, and knows it better than anybody else in the world. He's still King Levisky give him a shakedown with his gloves."

Dempsey was lucky to last the four rounds.
"I have repeatedly offered to fight Dempsey, but he comes back with a funny story. He is merely talking fight in an effort to help his barnstorming tour. Dempsey's legs have held me out for four years. He cannot knock me out."

SKELMING EASY
Sharkey state he also planned return route with Max Schmeling, and "I shall always be able to knock Schmeling," said Sharkey. "I have got the fellow's number. I can knock him down as I wish. In our last bout I decided to give him a boxing lesson. I didn't know he was a boxer. He looked quite foolish and I was glad to beat him out."

CAMERA HAS IMPROVED
Castanaga has shown improved ability as a boxer since he was knocked out by Sharkey. He is now a better boxer than he was when he was knocked out. He is now a better boxer than he was when he was knocked out.

Sharkey is back in Boston after five weeks spent at Bow Lake, N. B. Jack says he will weigh 200 pounds. He is well trained and looked to be in perfect physical condition.

Castanaga Punches Like Fitz, Says Igo
By HYPE IGO
International News Service Staff Writer

New York, Aug. 10 (INS).—Without those jolting tremors with which he suggested they point toward Castanaga before calling him a new heavy champion, Igo says he makes himself famous over night. He knocked out Charley Retzlaff in 21 of the first round at the Queensboro stadium last night. He fought the Dutch farm boy for the first time.

California Crew Is Uncle Sam's Only Hope on River

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP).—This was "Dreadnaught Day" in the Olympic naval battle, with the University of California's powerful, undefeated crew a favorite to defend America's eight-earl championship, despite unusually strong competition.

After three straight setbacks for the United States in the first day's regatta, the California crew, the big California battleship, was relied upon to fire a broadside to the United States in the first trial.

The Americans had a fight on their hands with the formidable Canadian crew, besides the fight of the United States in the first trial. The Americans had a fight on their hands with the formidable Canadian crew, besides the fight of the United States in the first trial.

CAMBRIDGE CREW STRONG
Victory today would ease the California's fight to retain the title won by another Golden Bear boat four years ago.

The American's most serious opposition, otherwise figured, came from the Cambridge University, representing Great Britain, a top-heavy choice to beat Japan, Italy and Brazil in today's second heat.

There's a second chance, however, for all the crews bettered in their first Olympic tests under a "reclassification" system, devised to get the four best entries into the final for each event.

The winner of each first preliminary and the winner of each of two subsequent trials gets into the final.

This system offers a fresh chance tomorrow for Bill Miller, a national sculling champion, and the Philadelphia sculler, who lost yesterday.

MILITARY TRIALS
Miller, despite a gallant effort, trailed a length behind Bobby Pearce, the famous Australian sculler and Olympic champion, Pearce exhibited the finest combination of skill and power of the men in the 2000 meters in 7 minutes 27 seconds.

He is a top-heavy favorite to keep the sculling title, especially as one of his main rivals, Herbert Buhl of Germany, diamond sculls winner in the 1000 meters at the 1928 Olympic, was disqualified for a 112-pound and long winning from Sabino Tridico, Mexican banamewitch.

K-O'S MISSING
While the first day's rowing was devoid of knockouts, the contest of the night saw Alberto Romero of Mexico lose on a foul in the third round to David McGee, English sculler. The boy from Great Britain was carried to his dressing room.

Facts You Might've Missed
Walter Johnson, who robbed Tommy Bridges of a no-hit no-run victory water 13 years to do the same trick himself. Al Chocolate will tour Europe, fighting Red Berg in the Olympic marathon, and friends persuaded him to stay in the United States. They are bargaining days at Saratoga this year; customers are admitted for a buck instead of the customary deuce. HUBBARD GRIP FEARS GZAC CHAMPION

Olympic Swimming Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (INS).—Yakovac, smiling Eleanor Holm, the girl who snubbed Zigfield's Follies for fame as a mermaid, today kept her "fingers crossed."

Although she set a new Olympic record of 1:18.3 in the women's 100-meter back stroke, in a preliminary heat, Eleanor declared the feared Bonnie Mealing, the Australian champion, in the final tomorrow. The previous record was 1:21.

"I'm keeping my fingers crossed," the pretty 18-year-old New York girl said, "until the finals are held."

Eleanor, a true devotee of art, revealed she had accepted the stage and the glamour of being a "mermaid beauty" cause the noise and dance routine interfered too much with her swimming.

"Just let me swim forever and I'll be happy," she said with her attractive smile. Her mind is set on defeating Miss Mealing and Marie Greenwell, a little Dutch girl, who also showed well in the 100-meter back stroke.

HONOR CLARE DENNIS
Meanwhile, homage was being paid to Clare Dennis, the English girl from Sydney, Australia, who captured the 200-meter breast stroke in 3:02.3. The old mark was 3:15.

Miss Dennis, the youngest of four swimming sisters of a prominent Los Angeles family, captured the coveted crown in her first "big time" swim.

Fifth was the best the United States could take in the breaststroke. Margaret Hoffman, of Homestead, Pa., finishing behind Miss Dennis, won 3:18.3.

KATHERINE SHOWS STUFF
Eyes of the 10,000 swimming fans today were cast at the graceful performance of Katherine Rawls, 16-year-old swimmer from Philadelphia, who competed with the girl of seven other girls for the Olympic crown.

The Braves, in a race in which Japan, Italy and Brazil in today's second heat.

Fish Game

By WIN BROOKS

A good many hunters and fishermen mourn the death of Thomas F. Lockney. Gunning in the Maine woods and angling off Marblehead was his favorite hobbies.

Reuben Hill, of Barre, St. Malde, caught a large bass weighing 8 1/2 pounds in Foster's pond at Dover. Dr. L. H. Bass, a fisherman from Barre, caught a large bass weighing 8 1/2 pounds in Foster's pond at Dover. Dr. L. H. Bass, a fisherman from Barre, caught a large bass weighing 8 1/2 pounds in Foster's pond at Dover.

The published report that Wachusett reservoir has been opened to general fishing and that no sportsman's license is required to fish it is wholly erroneous. Residents of Clinton, Boylston and West Boylston who are on the public list are the only ones so privileged, and they for only two months.

There are some huge bass and pickers in Wachusett, but don't try to get them unless you have the necessary credentials or you'll land in court. You need a special permit from the Metropolitan District Commission and a State fishing license.

For several hours last Sunday, while taking off Cohasset, with several companions, Patrolman John J. Portant of the Newton police was on duty. He could not catch a fish. Finally he went to the beach for a little refreshment. He ate some food and when he returned what do you suppose he had on? A large fish. A halibut? A swordfish? Ah, no! He had no less than a string bass. The fish was dead, and bottom one was a split and well-known fished halibut.

And now, gentle reader, if you've been consumed with curiosity regarding the picture, so here's the explanation. It was sent me by my old cowboy friend, Rocky Leight, of the Barre, some where near Odesa, Tex. It's neither a horse nor a rabbit, as you can see. It's a rabbit. You don't even use a 20-30. You use a 20-30. You use a 20-30. You use a 20-30.

Baseball Grims Adds To Lead; Can He Continue?
Charley Grimm, Cubs new manager, increased his lead over Rogers Hornsby, dropped pilot, yesterday when the Bruins whipped the Giants.

Will Grimm prove himself a more capable pilot than Hornsby? Did it profit the Giants to lose John McGraw and Bill Terry? Was it to the advantage of the Red Sox when John Collins resigned and Marty McManus was given the job?

So far, all three clubs that have experienced managerial changes this season are doing better under the present pilots than under the old order.

Under Hornsby, the Cubs lost 100 games. Under Terry, the Red Sox lost 100 games. Under McGraw, the Giants lost 100 games.

ZACHOW REACHES FOR LARIVEE'S N. E. CROWN

TITLE FIGHT AT WIGWAM TONIGHT

Magic Coin Likes Zachow in Fray With Larivee

Jack Conway today teased his famous magic coin, and it tipped him to pick the youthful Ad Zachow to win the New England middleweight championship from Leo Larivee in their ten-round bout at Braves Field tonight.

"I took for a hard, tough fight," said Jack. "And it appears as if Zachow's youth and sharper punting power will tip the scales in his favor."

Conway's 1933 record:

By RINGSIDE

Ad Zachow, 19-year-old Dover, N. H., ring star, will make stout-hearted bid to wrest the New England middleweight championship from Leo Larivee of Waterbury, Conn., in their ten-round bout at the Allied Printing Trades Council's hall at Braves Field tonight.

Larivee is only a 10 to 9 favorite to win. Zachow's long run of victories has caused many to believe of ring affairs to pick him to take the rugged Larivee over the jump.

The title bout is part of a colorful program being staged under Argonne A. A. direction. In addition to boxing, tonight's show will feature a wrestling bout between Bibber McCoy and Al Morelli, hard core, vaudeville acts and fireworks.

This elaborate program has been made possible by the Allied Printing Trades Council, a powerful and live wire organization.

The Larivee-Zachow title bout will feature the boxing end of the program.

There will also be two more ten-round bouts on tonight's card. Mickey Bishop of Stoughton will oppose Dutch Leonard of Waltham, while Eddie (Kid) Sullivan of Waltham will tackle George Salvatore of Oak Bluffs.

The 30 minute wrestling bout between Al Morelli, former Boston College star, and Bibber McCoy, former Holy Cross hero, should prove exciting. In their last contest, McCoy won.

In another 30-minute bout, Leo MacLachlan, formerly of Colgate, will take on Stanley Pinto of Manchester, N. H.

SHARKEY WOULD LIKE TO MEET GASTANAGA

times before he finally left him on the floor in a London fog.

"Hit! There hasn't been any such punching around New York since the great Ruby. Fitz himself went off into the purple shadows."

CHEEK BONE CUT

Besides being knocked out for the first time in his ring career, Retzlaff, in the short space of time they were throwing dumb bombs at each other, suffered a deep cut over his left cheek bone.

A left hook to the jaw sent Retzlaff down in a mystic made for "nine" almost before the sound of the opening bell had died away.

Retzlaff was up and that look of the hunted wolf came into his eyes. In that state Retzlaff is as dangerous as Bob Fitzsimmons ever was. He boxed and coked his right.

The Spaniard moved in with the soft tread of a black cat at the jungle. He beat Retzlaff to it.

Before Charley could even prime his right Gastanaga's hinged its way through space and Retzlaff was again on his back. He got up quickly—about four—almost too quickly in fact and in his dazed condition he was 1000 to 1 against the hitting of this new seeking wonder.

TRICKS TO RISE

A left and right spelled Retzlaff down. He went down as those two blows blasted him into semi-consciousness. He fumbled a gut full length, arms outstretched on the floor. They seemed to recover from this position. At 8 Retzlaff was around on his knees, having made a gallant effort to get there.

"Nine!" yelled the referee in his eyes.

The word bored into his dizzy, dazed brain. He attempted to arise, but his own weight was the voice that held him to the floor. He bent slightly forward, his nose almost touching the canvas.

Jack O'Sullivan, the referee, stopped and helped Retzlaff to his feet. Blood was running in a stream from his left cheek. His eyes were staring, strangely about, seeing nothing.

Brooklyn Sells Beck to Memphis

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

WITH ALL THIS heat and everything, Dennis Shea tells me the new Boston professional football team will have training quarters at Lynn. The players will start getting into condition early in September.

And Charley Adams informs me that there has been a healthy response for reservations for the Bruins hockey games next season. As if there were such a word as depression.

Maybe the nation's notion of ice on August 4 or 5 days makes folks anxious to be u y anything b o u l l n g thoughts.

I hope they don't try to stage any of those pro Marchion races up thing more tiresome to watch than a merry-go-round. Unless it's a chess match.

IT'S A CATCH

Jimmy McLarnin and Lou Brullard will collide in a return bout in the New York Garden in the fall. And if Morris Leonard is as smart as I believe he is he will insist that the distance Brullard is a check to flick "Baby Face" again.

I NEVER REALIZED Deputy Superintendent of Police Tom Goode could march so well until I saw him leading the grand march at the State police ball with Mrs. M. Steward wife of the State police hero, on his arm. A real soldier, Tom.

I BELIEVE THE Allied Printing Trades Council did itself proud when it arranged the attractive program for Braves Field tonight. Of course I'll be down close to the ring when the excitement starts. Floozie, wrestling and vaudeville. And I've still got enough of youth in me to enjoy fireworks.

Tommy Cannon isn't any fun to meet Kid Chocolate in a bout for the lightweight title. Don't blame him. Chocolate has been dipped in a punch bowl and can walk.

Looks as if Cannon will take things easy until he realizes that he is being trained for his bout with Billy Petrolle which was postponed when the latter received an injury to one of his arms.

I AM BETTING a couple of dollars that Benny Leonard wins from Paulie Walker of Jersey in their 10-round bout at Brooklyn tonight. Leonard showed enough class against Billy Townsend to warrant the belief that he shouldn't have any difficulty scoring a win over the rugged Walker.

GOODMAN STILL 'IN BAD' WITH GOLF SOLONS

By BILL GRIMES

Within three weeks, nine British amateur golfers will invade this country for the double purpose of lifting the Walker Cup from the United States team which is captained by Francis Ouimet, and of playing in the national amateur championship at Baltimore.

The seventh Walker Cup matches will be played at the Country Club. When the selection of the U. S. Walker Cup team was announced a storm of protest started over the inclusion of the United States Golf Association to include Johnny Goodman, the little blond insurance salesman from Omaha.

GOODMAN "IN WRONG" Apparently Johnny Goodman has been the pet hate of the golfers that he is in golf for years. Before the United States team was selected for the States amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Johnny was ordered in on the carpet and an attempt was made to establish the fact that because he was employed by a sporting goods house, he was a professional.

Because Goodman was working for a small salary, he was allowed to play a couple of years previous George Voigt's amateur standing was questioned and the result that Goodman blew up.

Apparently the third degree which Johnny Goodman went through at Pebble Beach did not have the effect upon the Omaha boy that these questionable tactics had on Voigt. Goodman not only qualified but he knocked the championship for a row of cooked hats by beating Bobby Jones, who, of course, was the box office attraction.

GOODMAN IS FINE GOLFER Goodman's victory over Jones did not improve his standing with the U. S. G. A. Judging from the fact that he was not selected to represent the United States on the Walker Cup team, he is still persona non grata with the high mules.

Although Johnny Goodman is one of the Johnny-Cone-Latsyis in national golf circles, he is fully entitled to a far higher rating than he has received from the U. S. G. A. He was the low scoring amateur during the U. S. Open at Fresh Meadows. He is one of the very few players who has ever beaten Bobby Jones in a championship match. And the leading opinion that he backs a sound game and is fortified with an abundance of courage.

There is something radically wrong when young and inexperienced players such as Charlie Souver, from the coast; Billy Howell of Virginia; George Dunlap, ex-Princeton star, and even Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston, are rated higher than Goodman.

It is perfectly natural for smokers to talk to each other about what they smoke and why they smoke a certain brand. Tastes differ, and therefore different people smoke different kinds of cigarettes. Those who smoke CHESTERFIELDS seem to take more pride in telling other smokers — "that CHESTERFIELDS are milder; that there is no harshness — no bitterness." They also tell them — "that CHESTERFIELDS taste better; that they have a pleasing aroma." . . . CHESTERFIELDS are clicking with millions.

RUSSIA 'GOES AMERICAN'

AND WILL HAVE LOVE, KISSES AND GAITY

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

I REALLY OUGHT TO APOLOGIZE for mentioning that Soviet Russia is going gay. My only excuse is that every other editorial writer and columnist in the United States will probably fall upon the news as heaven-sent, as indeed it is. Seldom are we handed a subject so juicy with human nature as the news that the Communist Youth has petitioned, and has been given permission, to have a good time.

The workman's blouse with the clerical collar no longer be the only wear allowed. Youths may wear neckties, girls may wear lipstick; gramophones—or as we should say, phonographs—may be imported and wound up and played, and music may be gay and gaily. And—the deplorable fact—kisses may be exchanged. I suppose this means, in public I doubt that even Communism succeeded in outlawing the other kind.

There Can Be Love and Kisses

Now, all this is news to me. I knew that Russians of the new dispensation dressed drably and that cosmetics and silk stockings were at a premium, but in my innocence I supposed that all this was the result of bitter poverty, equality of income and all that sort of thing. It had not occurred to me that there was an economic Puritanism as well as a religious one. But apparently there is. The young man who is called "the Stalin of Communist Youth" is reported to have spoken as follows:

"We are not against love, not against flowers, not against fashionable clothes. We are not against a hat, or against a necktie. We are not against nor do we preach asceticism. We are for full and many-sided life rich in experience."

Now, what with the Soviet press agents' emphasis on the splendor of the new Russian theater and opera and ballet, the picture of the new scene has not been altogether that of asceticism. And with marriage and divorce and remarriage reasonably rapid and casual affair, there should be no lack of kissing. But what young Mr. Kosaroff seems to imply is that the old Communists, the men who suffered through the revolution about and around the first decade really were Puritans. We of Yankee blood can understand that. We had ancestors who believed so fanatically in a clean worship and a pure church that they sought to secure the lusts of the flesh to submission.

Apparently we tried in England when the Puritans were a persecuted opposition. But just as soon as they came to Massachusetts Bay where there was no pressure from above, the young men began to relax. It became impossible to enforce the proper and color-coded clothing. The Puritan boys and girls donned hats and neckties and lipstick—or, in their language, laces and ribbons, gloves and russet coats.

When Youth Revolted

His father claims that by the second generation the revolt of the youth was a full career. Less than fifty years after 1630 Judge Samuel Sewall was much exercised because the unregenerate kept to Communist and wanted to read the Communist. Some kind of theatrical entertainment by 1690 the Theocracy had been overturned and the Puritans no longer governed the Massachusetts Bay Colony as their own. My guess is that if they had only let their young people wear bright colors, dance aqua dances to the fiddle, and neck discreetly, the Theocracy might have lasted longer.

Obviously there is some connection between the recent decrees allowing private trading for profit taking and private sale of agricultural produce and this curious youthful revolt against as against. The news seems to give the lie to all the official Soviet pamphlets who have come back with glowing accounts of the religious ardor and devotion with which Soviet youth is sacrificing self on the altar of country. Obviously these reporters have been allowed to see only selected youths and maidens, the cream of the crop, those who have not revolted.

But apparently there are a good many others who are not satisfied with wearing plain blouses and managing co-operative farms. They want to get in business for themselves, trade for themselves, and take their own profits. And as an outward and visible sign of the inward spiritual grace we call individualism, they want to dress like young people everywhere. The ugly cap will be replaced by the pearl gray Fedora or the gay and graceful derby. Rouge and lipstick, mascara and powder, the plucked eyebrows and the pointed nose will replace the sun-brown skin and the head kerchief. The stiff collar, the corsage bouquet, the high-heeled shoe, the jazz record, the cigarette, the Ford roadster—one we don't need to tread upon another's heels, so fast they follow!

What does it mean? It means that the god of Russian youth, the much more solid and attractive and realizable ideal of Americanism, Russia, we are told, has Fordist. Well, if they will have Fords it is only natural to expect that they will want the clothes and the decorations and manners and pleasures that go with the Ford.

Dress Big Factor in History

The part played by dress and manners in historic movements is more important than you might think. I have already said that when the old colored dress began to give the lie to the blue laws to the French Revolution, the elders feared themselves antique Romans of the Republic. They cut their hair a la Cato and Brutus. They scrapped their Louis Quinze furniture and went in for antique cane and cane chairs. Their women tried to dress skimpily a la Grecoine. One fashionable lady won a bet that she should walk the length of the Champs Elysee in her shift.

But the youngsters eventually rebelled. "Thou beginnest to bore us, Robespierre!" They got tired of the Terror and of the Revolution. They guillotined the Jacobins and set up the Directorate—another step on the road to Empire—and they burst out in the most fantastic clothes ever imagined by man, the costume of the Incroyables. The French Revolution was over!

Nevertheless the French Revolution left some permanent legacies in the way of dress. Long pants, for one, the collar and necktie for another. So if the youths of the Soviet want to be really Revolutionary, they do well to discard their old 19th century blouse and baggy trousers and peeked cap and boots, the clothing of enervation, and go in for revolutionary American clothing. The long pant, peg-top of Oxford bag, the blue shirt with separate collar, the Panama, the gorgeous tie, matching handkerchief and socks. Perhaps even spats, most misunderstood but most utilitarian of adornments.

Slowly but surely, Communism seems to be getting ready to settle blissfully back into the economic and social conditions of Sauk Center, Wisconsin, out where Main Street begins.

Four Civilians and Three Policemen Finally Save East Boston's Man's Life

It took four men today to rescue Angelo Ross, 27, of Maverick st., East Boston, from drowning off Wood Island, East Boston, and three policemen to revive him.

Ross was swimming in the water when he was caught in a current and ended for help.

TRAPPED THE CIVILIAN CONSUMED OF EVENT

Frank Allen, of Park st. and J. M. Viciello of Hale st., East Boston, plunged into the water and swam to Ross, and one themselves to be trapped in the water.

Then, Walter Hadden, a hotel bathhouse attendant, of a pool and put out in a rowing boat, as they arrived him at the beach.

With the police and with their aid, Hadden and the other two men pulled Ross to the shore. Ross was taken to the hospital and is now recovering.

LIFE IS SAID

The three patrolmen worked over Ross in the water, with one of them holding him up. The East Boston Relief Hospital was notified and Ross was taken to the hospital.

One hundred years old today, Mrs. Abigail Margaret Wedger looked out the window of her flower-banked room in a Newton private hospital upon a world worrying itself sick with depression—and, figuratively, snuffed.

Larry and Blondie Quarrel With Pa

"COME, BLONDIE," said Pa, affectionately attempting to put his arm around her as he glared as Larry.

"Stand back! I'm all right," shouted Blondie, reaching for the door. "You're terribly meddling yourself as Larry laughed and said to Pa."

"A LITTLE CHAMPAGNE" "She's all right. Just a little champagne." As he started away, Larry, in his respectful tone, said, "Good morning."

"Let's go in, Pa, and ask Larry to come in. He's invited me in," said Larry. "No, I'd better go. It's late," said Larry. "I'll see you tomorrow or next Monday—later."

"No—you won't!" said Pa in a stern voice. "You're not going to come in, are you?" "No," replied Pa. "From the door to the flat Blondie called."

"Ask Larry in, Pa!" Larry looked at Pa with an appealing, then turned quickly to the father. "If you're angry about her being out I'd better come in and explain."

"What's in it?" called Blondie. "Quiet, you little devil!" said Larry, laughing. Then turning to Pa, he said, "I'm not angry. I'm just a little bit tired."

"Blondie, come here!" Pa called. "Blondie could answer her father, Larry said quickly. "With Pa, I'm afraid," said Larry. "With you—who are you?" said Pa, turning on him.

"My name happens to be Larry Belmont," now there's nothing he should be afraid of. "He's in very good hands. He's been looked after by the best of us."

New York, Aug. 10 (INS)—A significant development, that is being generally overlooked, is the rise the economic director in this country. To date five major basic industries have placed their sons in the cabinet as acting or governing commission, while a half dozen others are on the verge. The five already under dictatorship rule are:

1. Oil.
2. Steel.
3. Rubber.
4. Shipping.
5. Motor pictures.

Steel is the latest recruit, with the appointment of Robert P. Lamont, Hoover's retiring secretary of commerce, as chief of the American Iron & Steel Institute. This is a virtual dictator of the industry that ranks third in importance in America.

The next industry to take the plunge will likely be the railroads. The executive of the industry is scouting out prospective candidates for the post as ear of their domestic, while the eastern executives are meeting with the western ones to discuss the possibility of a body of governors, with dictatorial powers.

We Would Like to Correct a Bad Impression

Before the Eighteenth Amendment is tossed aside, we would like to get a word in edgewise in behalf of the lowly prohibition snoper. You'll find people who thoughtlessly gossip to the effect that snopers consume, and sometimes better, the bottled goods they confiscate. Nothing could be further from the truth, as the candid camera shows. In fact, the bottles are destroyed on the spot, and a special apparatus has been perfected to make this ceremony a pleasure as well as a duty.

According to experts, when driving sixty miles an hour the safest plan is to keep 232 feet behind the driver ahead. But when driving behind female Impenetrators it's a good deal easier to stop and get a sandwich.

PAULETTE (Mrs. Frank) Frank, 20-year-old former nurse, is making a sensational sale in search of someone to marry her. The latter estimates it's a good deal easier to stop and get a sandwich.

Mr. Harriman Speaks for Business on War Debts

The first public attitude struck by Henry I. Harriman of Boston since his election as President of the United States Chamber of Commerce has been a favorable and sensible one.

At the Newport economic conference, Mr. Harriman said that the debts owed to this country by the foreign Nations can and should be paid.

"This public debt is a perfectly fair debt," he said. "It is not a heavy burden on foreign budgets."

When Mr. Harriman said the debt is a perfectly fair debt he said a lot. This debt was largely contracted by the European Nations to rebuild themselves from the havoc of their war. In short, Uncle Sam loaned them some eighteen thousand million dollars to rebuild their industries; to put them in a position to compete with the industries of the United States.

And he (or properly speaking, his agents at Washington) have since written off about 51 per cent of the money he loaned to them in a spirit of lavish generosity such as the world has rarely, if ever, experienced.

Mr. Harriman says the debt is not a heavy burden upon the budgets of the European Nations. And in this, too, he is as right as right can be. The only burden is upon Germany, from which these Nations have collected atrociously excessive reparations in order to liquidate their own war debts to Uncle Sam. It is not the war debts which are the costly element of their budgets but the military appropriations by which they keep themselves in readiness to spring at each other's throats again.

Mr. Harriman is evidently speaking the views not of the international bankers but of the solid industrial and business interests of this country. It is they who are the backbone of the United States Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Harriman is right in speaking so properly for their best interests.

Politicians and Love

A reader asks, "Do modern politicians venerate and love their wives with the same respect and affection shown by the statesmen of yore?"

The answer might, as from Andy of the radio, "Yes and No; perhaps a little more Yes or a little more No."

The love of Disraeli (Lord Beaconsfield) for his spouse was classical.

The devotion of McKinley to his invalid wife still charms White House memories.

Modern statesmen might read the letter of John Winthrop, first Governor of Massachusetts, written to his wife in 1637:

"Sweetheart:
"I was unwillingly hindered from coming to thee nor am I likely to see thee before the 1st of this week. Therefore I shall want a band or two and cuffs."

"I pray thee send me six or seven leaves of tobacco dried and powdered."

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee, sweet wife, and all our family. So I kiss thee and love thee forever."

"Thy faithful husband,
"JOHN WINTHROP."

And profit from it.

Their Answer Is Clear

The 26th general convention of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union, meeting here in Boston, voted unanimously to support "the political party and its candidate for President" who have declared for repeal of prohibition and for the immediate return of beer and wine in the interest of true temperance.

The Democratic party and Governor Roosevelt are, of course, the ones referred to.

The Democratic party, in its convention at Chicago, and Governor Roosevelt, in his speech of acceptance and in his recent radio address were clear, certain and courageous in their discussion of prohibition.

Was Eve a Blonde?

A beauty specialist of Boston claims that Eve was a blonde—as blonde as straw.

We have a higher authority than this for the statement of Eve's complexion; nothing less than the Talmud, itself.

Venus was one, we are told. Zeus is supposed to have surrounded himself with fair-haired ones, including his wife, Juno. So were Diana, goddess of moon; Athena, goddess of wisdom. But why go on? And what of it, anyway. Except that if all of them were blondes, with no beautiful brunettes to rival them, fickle man probably wouldn't love blondes as he does.

O. O. McIntyre New York Day by Day

Sons of the Rich
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Many citadels of the rich, these days, are torn by the communistic zeal of the juniors. A Park avenue penthouse has a daughter who is hot-gospelizing calamity from a Columbus Circle soap box. A Fifth Avenue family schism reveals two sons crusading at socialist centers.

Perhaps the most prominent of dissenters is young Corliss Lamont. His father is a member of the very capitalist House of Morgan. The son shows extremely liberal tendencies, as does his young wife. They are active in several very radical movements.

It is reported four members of the Social Register were present at the last "New Masses" ball—not as curiosity visitors, but as those taking a sudden interest in radical "amusements" of the day. The son of a steel magnate is starting a revolutionary weekly, too.

Two debutantes have marched in protest parades as a symbol of their resentment to what they call "social wrongs." Riders are looking with tolerance upon such activities. One father expressed his indifference over his son's street salivating with "Anyways," it keeps him in the open air.

Will Cuppy sponsors the jubilant romances of a young man who is visiting a psychiatrist, regarding talking to himself. It hasn't bothered him until recently when he came to the sudden conclusion he was a dreadful bore.

It strikes me the only man I know to outsmart the depression is Waterman Rothker, who has salvaged several million out of the Hollywood hurrah. A few weeks ago Rothker closed his Beverly Hills mansion and with his wife and daughter mounted the gang-plant for a cruise that will take them away from the beaten paths—Island and where not. Like many others, he owns outright high grade shares and is now in the clear. But during his cruise he does not intend to read a single market analysis or letter to a yep about the end of the world.

There is eternal excitement for the outsider in the noiseless sliding of doors and windy swoosh of elevators in populous midtown skyscrapers. One elevator bites off a chunk of skyward without a second's wait, while another surges a jet of humanity, scattering through the polished corridors. The sturdy with his cricket chirping dings, and the man in a glassy stare, tremendously flattered at such a brightly hued act of grace as starting me off skyward without a second's wait. It is the only time I ever feel a person of even minor importance in this sporting community.

A modest inn in the end of Sheephead Bay, incidentally, is where I take an "mysterious" Green. The proprietor and the waitress mistake me for "Mr. Gray." When I appear at the door, waiters galvanize into a salaming huddle. Then they circulate about, whispering to diners behind menus, and everybody looks my way. I took one gentleman from back home there and he is still telling how my very entrance upset an out-of-the-way restaurant.

Too, there is a self-oblivious functioner, known as the "wash-room boy," in the Los Angeles Biltmore, who beguiles me with a patina of pomp. His whisk broom talks in mid-air as I appear, and he flutters about as though I might be a Wales Igniter. I did not master the mystery until last night when, in departing, he said: "You was certainly the cats in your last picture."

I lacked courage to ask him what he thought I was, a mite afraid he would confess: "Oh, I just know everybody that way. If he does, it's a great formula for tip doubling. He got a half dozen dimes from me. And I'm a washroom picker."

I have been taken at times for Tully Marshall, of the moans, and Pearson McCord, a New York sailor. Then the drunk in Jack's one night who lurched to my table, mumbling: "You know who you look like? Before I could answer, he continued: 'Well, I know. You look like an antester clean out of ants.'"

Listen, World! By Elsie Robinson

Out of Yesterday—
SICK OF LIVING, sometimes! Hate this stupid, cruel, dishonest world!

And you wonder what's the use of trying to live in a place like this—
—a place with—
—a decent meaning—
—a plan? If there were any hope of things getting better, you could sit at a thing——go on having faith—but there isn't.

That's what you're thinking! Don't! You're wrong! Yes, I know, things look pretty dark and, from our little perspective, there doesn't seem to be any improvement. But look back and look back deep. Look back far enough, and deep enough. There is a plan. There is a reason and an explanation for everything. And if you can once find it, you'll never again feel so hopelessly bewildered by life, as though God, himself, mocked you. Instead, you'll feel that even the tangles of life are a flogging challenge!

Frank Townsend, the English philosopher, has given the explanation of life's middle in that strong and beautiful book, "Earth."

"The world that is today, grew out of the world of yesterday. And the earth of tomorrow is forming in the earth of today."

"And you, and I—
"Belong to the world of today;
"Having come to yesterday;
"With a journey to make into tomorrow."
"That is why we sometimes find it uncomfortable.
"Stopping where we are."

Why is life as it is? That is why because life is growing. The world that is today grew out of the world of yesterday, and the men of today grew out of the men of yesterday. It is a long story. You cannot read that story by looking at the earth in your back yard, or reading your grandfather's diary. You must look further; look deeper. Look back into the jungle shadows, just far and cruelty. Look back at the earthquakes and tidal waves, the glaciers and fires that molded our earth of today—at the upheavals and convulsions, freshings of desolation and fires of adversity that molded the human spirit of today.

Out in your back yard is a small weed called "thornless rose." A stupid, scraggly thing it seems, yet it is a hanger-on of the great reds and grasses that towered over the primordial swamps before ever there were trees.

Deep in your spirit there are traits which seem to have no place in a civilized world—terrors and lusts you blush to admit. How did they come there, in a decent person like you? They "came there" because the men of tomorrow from those far-off days when man was a shambling brute, ruled by terror and lust.

You grew out of that man of yesterday, and they are still bound by him. Even your flesh still bears tags of his jungle flesh which are a stinging reminder.

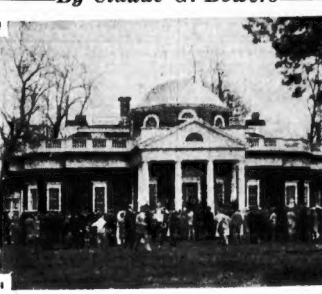

You grew out of that man of yesterday, and the men of tomorrow now forming in you. He is forming in your most trivial acts, your slightest decisions. Every time you take a step forward, you lift that future man toward the stars. Every time you take a step back, you thrust him back into the jungle.

Don't despise life. Don't try to run away with it. It is the greatest moving picture show on earth. Move with it!

Save Monticello; a Plea to Americans

By Claude G. Bowers

MONTICELLO—THE HOME OF JEFFERSON

AN APPEAL has been made to the American people to save Monticello, the home of Jefferson, dedicated as a national shrine several years ago.

Nine years ago an organization was perfected to acquire this beautiful mansion for presentation to the nation because it was the home of the heart of the great philosopher of democracy. It was designed by Jefferson, one of the real American architects of his day; it was in this house that he planned his battles for a free society. It was here that he spent the years of his retirement on leaving the presidency, and for twenty years the great of all nations had sentimental journeys to the house on the hill top. It is associated with Washington, Madison, Monroe, John Adams, Lafayette, Webster, Clay—all the great patriots of the time. It was here Jefferson died, and here he is buried.

Four hundred thousand dollars has been paid on the purchase price—and thousands of school children have contributed their dimes and pennies to this end; and thousands of people of ordinary means have given their dollars.

Just $25,000 has been spent for necessary improvements and repairs—to prevent the deterioration of a property that is sacred to patriotism.

And $200,000 worth of old furniture and historic relics have been donated.

For the property today is worth as much as $800,000.

But still outstanding on the purchase price is $127,000 for which provision must be speedily made or the whole achievement may be lost and the shrine revert to private ownership.

That would be a disgrace to the nation.

School Children Contributed

On several occasions when money was required for the purchase of school children in America rallied to the cause with all the enthusiasm of their young patriotism. They made their sacrifices in pleasures because of what Jefferson has done for the nation. A prohibition against the use of our free institutions means to little that even in these days it is impossible to secure as much as $127,000 we would not want to be the one to tell these children the shameful story.

Of course such a tragic collapse of all patriotic sentiment even in these days seems incredible. For in the last $225,000 there were 25,000 Americans who would give a five-dollar bill. Or more there are 125,000 Americans who would give a ten-dollar bill.

It is only a way to reach these Americans is by a popular appeal through the American press. In solicit contributions. Individually through agents or correspondence.

All the expenses of the Jefferson Foundation have been out to the home—because of the depression. There should be no need for indemnification.

The mere announcement of the fact that $127,000 is required to save Monticello to the nation forever should be enough.

Government Failed to Finance Shrine

I have scant patience with the fact that the American Government has done absolutely nothing. It has appropriated vast sums of money for memorials less sacred, impressive, and meaningful than this. It accepted Jefferson's services in the war, and in all our history has served it as an example. When, because of his long public life, he was given a pension, it took his library for a national monument of the nation's congressional library.

Lincoln said the year after he died that the public by private gift should preserve his home. I think it would be a worthwhile thing if Jefferson was a forerunner of the nation's founder to permit this enterprise to fail—because of $127,000.

But the government is not asked. The help must come from the people, the children for whose education private money has bought the press for whose freedom he wages every battle. The help must come from the churches of all sects and creeds whose rights he guaranteed.

But when the depression came, the board decided to ask no further donations to the purchase until times are better. The depression has continued longer than expected—and now an organization, rendering a great service to the country, which has a property dedicated to the nation of the value of $800,000 is compelled to ask the

There's a mouse head in the hall
And a dead fish on the wall,
And a stuffed owl on the mantelpiece
And birds in a shining cage.
There's an antlered deer upstairs
And a mounted fox which shares
With a partridge phone at its wily feet
A nice mahogany base.

There's a maid each morn who must
Go round the rooms to dust,
And day by day on her weary face
There is even a dismal scowl.
And this is the song she sings:
"Dead deers are dreadful things!
And I hate fish on a shining board!
And the wings of a mounted owl!"

"Oh, if ever a man I wed,
May he care for books instead
Of moose and mountain goats and deer
And ducks in a glassy den."
May his hobby be postage stamps
For I've had my fill of dusting things!
Which a hunting man brings home."
